

SÉRGIO BUARQUE DE HOLANDA AND THE AMERICAS A Celebration of His Visit to Stony Brook University

Friday, February 20, 1:30 - 5 PM

STONY BROOK MANHATTAN – 387 Park Avenue South, 3rd Floor, Room 312

PROGRAM

1:30 PM – Paul Firbas and Javier Uriarte: Welcoming Remarks

1:50 - 3:15 – Comparative Approaches to Sérgio Buarque de Holanda

Paulo Moreira (Yale University) – “Botanic Tropes in Latin American Imagination, or Inserting Roots of Brazil into a Continental Perspective”

Robert Newcomb (University of California Davis) – “The Idea of Sobranceria in Sérgio Buarque de Holanda”

Thiago Nicodemo (Universidade do Estado do Rio de Janeiro) – “Displacements of past and future in Sérgio’s and Chico Buarque’s visions of Brazil”

3:15 – 3:30 – Coffee Break

3:30 – 4:30 – Raízes do Brasil*: Re-editions and Translations

Pedro Meira Monteiro (Princeton University) and Lilia Schwarcz (Universidade de São Paulo) – “The long-awaited critical edition of Sérgio Buarque de Holanda’s Raízes do Brasil: The Historian Reads Himself”

Respondent: Álvaro Fernández Bravo (CONICET) – On Translating Sérgio Buarque

Co-Organized by:

Department of Hispanic Languages and Literature
Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies
– Stony Brook University

Co-Sponsored by:

Department of History
The Humanities Institute
– Stony Brook University

The Race and Citizenship in the Americas Network
– Princeton University