Call for Submissions for *Ca' Foscari Annals (Western Languages, Literatures, Culture, and History Section)

Annali di Ca' Foscari. Serie occidentale is an open-access annual online journal of peer-reviewed academic articles which was first published in 1962.

The journal provides a voice for the Department of Linguistics and Comparative Cultural Studies, it is international in outlook, and accepts contributions both from established Italian and foreign academics and from younger scholars. The web page <http://edizionicafoscari.unive.it/en/edizioni/riviste/annali-di-ca-foscari-serie-occidentale/> provides information about the journal's aims and research areas and the names of members of the editorial committee.

The journal comprises two sections: the first on Languages, Culture, and History, the second on Linguistics.

The Western Languages and Literatures Section of the journal welcomes contributions in English, Albanese, Basque, Bulgarian, Catalan, Czech, French, modern Greek, German, Polish, Portuguese, Romanian, Russian, Serbian-Croatian, Slovenian, Spanish, and Swedish.

The journal is currently seeking submissions for the next issue, which has a planned publication date of Autumn 2018. Proposals will be evaluated by the Editor and the Editorial Board on the basis of their pertinence to the research areas covered by the Department. Articles, including footnotes and references section, should not exceed 50.000 strokes (including spaces).

All articles should be accompanied by an abstract in English (1500 strokes, including spaces). All abstracts should be followed by four key words and by a short biographical note in English (1000 strokes, including spaces).

Any visual material submitted should be accompanied by captions and an authorization for reproduction as follows “per uso di critica, a scopi di ricerca scientifica e con finalità illustrative e non commerciali”, which the author will have previously obtained from the copyright holder, if appropriate.
