Call for researchers | Literature, Humanism and Cosmopolitanism

Within the scope of the Chair CIPSH of Global Studies at the Universidade Aberta (CEG-CIPSH-UAb), based in Lisbon, Portugal, the research line in Literature, Humanism and Cosmopolitanism has permanently opened a call for national and international researchers interested in collaborating.

It is risen the opportunity to create lines of action and actively participate in any of the activities of this line of research, fostering and developing partnerships and solid contact networks involving national and international researchers and institutions, in order to enhance projects associated with these themes or analogous ones, and enabling the sharing and dissemination of knowledge, as well as to have institutionally supported academic and scientific research projects in any area of knowledge relevant to the study of these themes and in any degree of graduate or postgraduate education.

All researchers interested in collaborating must send a curriculum vitae and a motivation letter, explicitly mentioning their research prospects, to lit.human.cosmo@gmail.com.
